Parent information on handwriting skills

Handwriting involves many complex skills such as :

- Knowing letters of the alphabet
- Visual perceptual skills
- Visual motor skills
- Following a sequence
- Controlling the paper to stay within the lines
- Letter formation
- Understanding left to right progression
- Understanding top to bottom progression
- Tracking the movement of the hand, pencil and paper
- Crossing midline skills
- Bilateral coordination skills
- Fine motor skills including in-hand manipulation

Poor skills in any of these areas may flag up in a child's handwriting. That's why I've added a lot of games in today's task that you may not associate with handwriting but are activities that will strengthen skills for writing.

DIY maze of playdough. Practise your hand-eye coordination make a maze using: playdough, a lid with a lip, a small ball/marble. Who's best at this in your house?

Make sure there are no gaps in your playdough and there's enough room for your marble to go around the maze.

Following the success of ZUMBA KIDS we have them again this week with – I like to move it - Did it put a smile on your face and sweat on your brow and sweat on your brow?

For this exercise, the child stands up (or you can do in sitting). Gently place both hands behind the head. Without pulling on the head and neck, bring the left elbow to the right knee and back up to upright standing. Then bring the right elbow to the left knee and back up to upright standing. Repeat for a count of 10 to each side

Make sure the snakes tails touch the side of the lid and the heads leave enough room for the marble to go around.

What did you use to make your maze? Please send me a picture.
