Parent information on handwriting skills

Handwriting involves many complex skills such as :

- Knowing letters of the alphabet
- Visual perceptual skills
- Visual motor skills
- Following a sequence
- Controlling the paper to stay within the lines
- Letter formation
- Understanding left to right progression
- Understanding top to bottom progression
- Tracking the movement of the hand, pencil and paper
- Crossing midline skills
- Bilateral coordination skills
- Fine motor skills including in-hand manipulation

Poor skills in any of these areas may flag up in a child's handwriting. That's why I've added a lot of games in today's task that you may not associate with handwriting but are activities that will strengthen skills for writing.

Boost your learning complete a task

Practise your fine motor skills: make a mountain out of playdough. Put sticks of spaghetti into your mountain and challenge yourself to thread as many objects as you can on a single strand without breaking it.

It's the Zumba Kids with –Better when I'm dancing

Press here when Finished.

This is another exercise that many children will be familiar with from gym class. Laying down on the floor, gently place your hands behind your head. Bring the left elbow to the right knee and put your head back on the mat. Then bring your right elbow to the left knee. Put your head back on the mat. Repeat 10 times to each side. DO NOT pull on your head and neck. Your hands are just supporting your head.

A quick reminder -please post, send or share your work with your class teacher. Teachers love to see and hear your learning.

Record yourself reading your book and let us listen to you read.
